Saik has had extensive experience in the fields of HR Development, Marketing and PR, Journalism, and Education.

He is very much a community-oriented person, as is shown by his involvement in street and on-site theatre, inner-city arts education, and heritage conservation.

Saik's workshops have continually received positive feedback for his strong emphasis on transfer of learning and his ability to establish relevance to content for his audiences.

He delivers workshops and speeches for both frontline and executive teams in the manufacturing, education, banking, health, and public sectors, as well as for public audiences.

“Saik is good at keeping our attention, and able to link the training content to real-life application rather than just dry and hard knowledge. He is a very professional facilitator.”
